Lot's Wife

On the island of St. Helena there is a curious and interesting rock called Lot's Wife. It stands erect on the crest of a ridge that runs across the barren and uninhabited part of the island, and it is supposed to be a mass of lava long ago forced up through a crack in the crust. It is nearly or quite 300 feet high and when seen from a distance bears a striking resemblance to a draped human figure of tremendous size.

First People in Britain

Geologists are not agreed when and by whom Britain was first peopled. Real knowledge began with the two Celtic invasions, that of the Golds, in the latter part of the Bronze age, and that of the Brythons and Belgae in the Iron age. By the time of Julius Caesar all the inhabitants of Britain, except perhaps some tribes in the North, were Celts in speech and customs.

Teeth of Elephants

An elephant has eight teeth, two above and two below on each side. They are huge yellow molars as wide as a man's hand. Over these their food is shifted by the queerest, ugliest tongue in the whole animal kingdom. Elephants, like human beings, have two sets of teeth. The milk teeth, which are smaller than the permanent molars, fall out when the animals are fourteen years old.

Doing Well.

Pat was digging at his field, which turned out a very rough piece of land. A policeman, looking over the gate, inquired whether he would get any potatoes off it this season. "Well," replied Pat, rather cheerfully, "I have 50 stones out up to the present."

A Paradox.

"Strange as it may seem," launched out the mah of observations, "when the young lady of the house declares that a certain young man is after her own heart, and father says he is after his, too, there is no chance whatever for an argument."

WARNING TO FORD OWNERS.

Recently stock circulars were sent to almost all Ford owners offering fractional parts of shares of Ford in Canada stock at $6 per portion.

We are issuing our first authoritative information on this for the protection of the public. The sale of this stock at the prices quoted in the circulars would be just $145 per share more than the stock is quoted on the Curb market and the book value of the stock is approximately $375 as of July 1, 1924. We will be pleased to secure any further information in this connection.

The Houstonia farms in Madison county, consisting of 4,775 acres were sold Tuesday, September 30, by receivers of the Houstonia Farm company and of Foster B. Houston and trustee of the estate of L. S. Houston and E. D. Houston for a total of $454,017.70.

Howard Park, of Columbus, was the purchaser and he immediately transferred the land to the Ohio Seed and Products company, of Mechanicsburg, which plans to use it for nursery purposes.

KEEPING WELL
CANCER
DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

CANCER is the greatest mystery of the human body.

In spite of the fact that many scientists have devoted their lives to study of this scourge of humanity, we know little more about it than did our forefathers.

For hundreds of years, theories of one sort and another have been advanced, some of them reasonable and possible, others ridiculous and impossible. For a long time, the disease was believed to be hereditary. That theory was abandoned but revived a few years since as a result of experiments on mice, which seemed to indicate that cancer could be handed down from one generation to another.

Whatever the cause, it has thus far evaded discovery. We do know that cancer generally begins in some part of the body where there has been a constant and long-continued irritation, as on the lip of a smoker; in the breast of a woman, where there has been pressure or irritation from corsets or clothing; on the tongue or inside the cheek, where a broken tooth has irritated the surface; or in any other part of the body where there has been continued irritation. It may also develop from a mole or a wart on the skin.

The first indication may be a small sore or ulcer, the scab or crust of which, on coming off, leaves a freshly ulcerating surface beneath; or it may appear as a small lump under the skin; or, in the case of internal cancers, such as those of the liver, stomach or intestines, the first symptoms may be some digestive disturbance; while a malignant disease of the uterus, bladder or rectum would probably first be indicated by a bloody discharge from the organ. In the majority of cases of cancer, pain is not present until the disease has progressed to a serious stage, often too late for any help.

As far as present-day knowledge goes, there is no way of stopping a cancerous growth except by removing the diseased tissue. We do know that if the small local lump or sore is removed, the probabilities are that no more trouble will follow.

The early symptoms of cancer are similar to those of other ailments and the layman is not capable of deciding what his trouble may be. If you have any of the symptoms described, seek expert medical advice immediately. If you have a cancer, your only hope lies in early detection of the condition and prompt treatment.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Guilty One," a new Paramount picture, featuring Agnes Ayres opened at the Met theater yesterday. It's a neat little program picture, interesting and well done—a Joseph Henabery production, adapted from the stage play of the same name by Michael Morton and Peter Traill. Anthony Coldewey wrote the scenario and he has done a good job of it.

Miss Ayres has the role of Irene Short, wife of an unusually successful young architect. The husband's efforts to achieve still further recognition cause him to neglect his charming wife. The girl accepts the situation and tries to make the best of things. Unable to get Donald away from his work, Irene, always accompanied by her brother, Phillip, seeks diversion with some friends—and then she meets Seaton Davies, a wealthy middle-aged bachelor who poses as a patron of arts and who, because of such connections, appeals to Irene as a man who could do much to help her husband.

Unluckily for all concerned, however Gotham Gossip, a blackmailing publication, gets wind of the affair and thru its columns informs the husband of a proposed meeting between the two, advising him to make use of his talent as draughtsman and change his wife's plans. This brings both husband and brother down on top of Davies in short order—and things begin to happen. Davies is found murdered and there is conclusive evidence that Donald Short and Phillip were at his home on the fatal night. It looks like the chair for one of them, but which one?

There's a unique climax that brings out the innocence of the accused men and convicts one you never thought for a moment had anything at all to do with the crime. Here's one picture in which you never even suspect the culprit until the very last scenes. That's what makes it different from the other so-called mystery dramas. But "The Guilty One" is a real MYSTERY-drama.

Edward Burns, as Donald Short, has the leading man's role opposite Miss Ayres. Stanley Taylor plays Phillip Dupre; Crauford Kent has the part of Seaton Davies and Cyril Ring portrays Beverley Graves, editor of Gotham Gossip. Others in the cast include Thomas R. Mills, Catherine Wallace, Clarence Burton, George Seigman and Dorothea Wolbert. Fax-on Dean did the photography.

Good Furniture
Adds Much to the Joy of Living--Little to the Cost

America is fast becoming a nation of better homes. Everywhere there is a growing realization that good Furniture has much to do with happiness and contentment within the home. Furniture, therefore, is now generally recognized as one of the soundest, possible investments—an investment that will pay you richly in "dividends" of comfort, pride and satisfaction. And when you divide the original cost of good Furniture by the many years it will serve you satisfactorily and well, the cost per year is trivial, indeed. Let us show you the many new arrivals, the exceptional values, now featuring our splendid stock of worthwhile Furniture.

Returning later, he asked the boy how he had gotten along.

"Fine," exclaimed the lad. "I sold a pair of pants for eight dollars."

"Eight dollars! We ain't got no eight dollar pants."

"Here is the tag," declared the boy. "See, here is five dots and here is two more, and here is another one."

"So help me," solemnly announced Charley as he studied the tag, "I never kill another fly."

THE MECHANICAL CITY.
One of the wonders to be exhibited at the coming Pumpkin Show is the Mechanical city. This display of art is of foreign design and skill and it took the maker, H. W. Yendz, eight years to accomplish the work. The entire city it is claimed was worked out with a hand knife. You will see in this unique city, pigeons flying from a building, a man drawing water from a barrel and another rowing on a lake and a number of other movable objects such as a man pumping water and animals walking in the street. All the objects are miniature.

"Daniel Boone" is the fourth picture to be released in the series of thirty-three Chronicles of American motion pictures.

This is another of the inspiring motion pictures of American history produced by the Yale University Press with the sanction of Yale university. "Daniel Boone presents a vivid dramatization of the adventurous life of the famous Kentucky pioneer who, with the born instinct of an explorer and an amazing knowledge of Indian life, blazed a westward trail thru the wilderness of our country. We see him starting out from North Carolina to select the site for a new settlement beyond the mountains. We see the settlement of Boonesboro founded by him in 1776, struggling to keep body and soul together in the face of famine and hostile Indian attacks. Then Boone is captured by the Indians. His intrepid bravery wins their admiration and, awed by his knowledge, they adopt him as a brother. In 1778, an Indian offensive, stirred up by a French officer in the service of the British, is launched against Boonesboro. But just in time Boone escapes and reaches the settlement before the attack. With nerve tingling excitement we experience every emotion of those hardy frontiersmen as they withstand a desperate nine-days' siege and foil every attempt of the Indians to force an entrance inside the stockade. With such episodes woven around the personality of Daniel Boone, the picture fulfills every requirement of a colorful screen production. Because of its dramatic interest and authenticity Daniel Boone typifies the motion picture at its best. — Yale University Press.

And Ma ons Unite in Doing Honor to a Session of Lutheran Brotherhood Thursday Evening Was Very Interesting.

More than the usual number of men were out Thursday night to what proved to be more than the ordinary meeting of the Lutheran brotherhood. R. L. Brehmer talked on "Henry Ford, and His Religion." Bob showed that Mr. Ford believes that business and religion could mix and proved it by his attitude toward his employees. Mr. Ford believes that the sermon on the Mount is a good foundation for business and that he makes room in his business for the blind, the crippled and the consumptive.

John Goeller Jr., surprised many with his facts that ministers' sons do not usually turn out bad. He showed that 30 per cent of the multimillionaires of today were preachers. John's talk was well worth while.

L. M. Mader wound up the evening with a snappy bulletin. Jack Wardell and several other good fellows served the lunch. Much interest was displayed over the coming trial.

Menace of Vesuvius Today as Yesterday

A queer life they must have lived in those little houses of Pompeii, whose rough masonry and stained patches of color were first created when Germany was a savage forest, Britain a moist land distant from civilization "the whole globe away," and America had never felt the tread of a shod foot. In the sunny courtyard the master dreams away the hot hours to the splash of the tiny fountain, listening to the sleepy gabble of his slaves from the rooms round the atrium. The rattle of the two-horsed chariots over the lava blocks of the street, the oaths of a driver who fails to negotiate the huge stones placed like massive policemen to regulate the traffic at the entrances to the cross-roads, disturb his slumber, and he remembers the gladiators, "heroes of ten fights," when the aedile Pansa is to exhibit in the arena on the Nones of April. A dull roar, and a vertical column of pearl-white smoke, bellying out into fantastic shapes and floating majestically away on the light wind, shows him that Vesuvius is angry. He glances for reassurance to the picture of the Lares and the snake of fortune, painted on the wall of the entrance porch to avert ill-luck. No need to worry; it has always been like that and always will be.

It is like that today. The monster snorts fire and smoke innocuously into the blue sky. Visitors on sturdy ponies go fearlessly up to gaze into his black, evil-looking jaws. But will it always be like that? Or, when the last bucketful of cinders has been painfully sifted, and the last house cleared, will he again mock human labors and human hopes and cover all once more with dust raining from a lurid sky?—Washington Post.

Carving Aged Timber

Alois Lang of Manitowoc, Wis., who ranks among the foremost of America's wood carvers, is working on a block of oak taken from the timbers of York cathedral in England, which was built 900 years ago. He is making beautiful panels to be placed in the sanctuary and chancel of St. Paul's cathedral in Los Angeles. Records in England show that the oak timbers were given by William the Conqueror to Bishop Walkelin during whose episcopate the edifice was erected.

PASTOR RESIGNS

Rev. S. C. Elsea, of New Holland, Has Not Announced Future Plans.

The official boards of the New Holland and Atlanta Methodist Episcopal churches, one day last week, accepted the resignation of Rev. S. C. Elsea, as pastor of the two churches.

Rev. Elsea was assigned the local post at the 1923 annual conference, when Rev. C. L. Thomas was removed to the Adelphi church. At the conference, held in Ironton, two weeks ago, he was again given this charge.

While a movement is under way to secure a new pastor, the church is without a minister. Up to this time Rev. Elsea has not yet announced his plans for the future.—New Holland Leader.

Compliment for Kathleen.

Kathleen told some stories to a little niece and nephew. At a family dinner party grandpa referred to these same nursery tales, but not following the exact lines, when Margaret piped up: "No, no, grandpa, that is not the way Kathleen tells the stories and Kathleen is a good knower."

EDWIN D. RICKETTS

Republican Candidate for Congress
My record in congress for service to one and all alike is generally known by the electorate of this district. If returned to congress by your suffrage, I will render faithful and conscientious service to all.
I am for the actual and substantial reduction of taxes and real and effective economy, and for such legislation as will advance, promote and protect the interests and welfare of the common people.
In my judgment there should be less politics and more efficiency in official service in the congress of the United States.
The people deserve the highest quality of public service from their representatives in congress, and if elected my time and ability will be devoted to the advancement of their welfare and the protection of their interests.
I will appreciate your support and influence.

Ability of the Aged.
It has often been said that a man cannot learn a new trade after he is forty, but this statement has frequently been disproved. Peter S. Du Ponceau was eighty when he wrote his valuable treatise on the Cochinese language, and had only then recently taken up the study; and the late John Bigelow was still an author turning out a book when he passed his ninety-fifth birthday. — Philadelphia Public Ledger.

BARN BURNED

Contents Insured but Mrs. Irene Bussert's Loss is $1200.
A barn on the farm occupied by Mr. Jack Keough, of near Amanda, burned Wednesday afternoon causing a $1200 loss to Mrs. Irene Bussert, of Amanda, who owns the property.
The blaze was discovered Wednesday afternoon by Mr. Ralph Mettler, who was driving past the farm and noticed that the haystack adjacent to the barn was afire. He notified Mr. Keough, who called the Amanda fire department. All farm machinery with the exception of a binder and two plows was saved, but the structure, measuring 36 feet by 42 feet and the contents, 22 tons of hay were lost. The firemen and neighbors succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading in the home and other nearby buildings one of which contained 250 bushels of wheat.
Keough's loss on the contents was fully covered by insurance, but Mrs. Bussert had only $300 insurance on the barn. The insurance was carried in the Fairfield Farmers' Mutual. Spontaneous combustion caused the fire.
The home of Harley Valentine was endangered by flying embers.

Yes, Guess.

When a young husband sits him down in his easy chair, and his child-wife slips quietly along, sits down in his lap and relates with tears trickling down her face that she hasn't had a new hat in three months—guess, gentle reader—which is the easier (or the uneasier), the chair or the husband.

★ Bible Thought for Today

KEEP THE WORD.—Whoso keepeth the word, in him verily is the love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in Him.—1 John 2:5.

The World's Diamonds.

Diamonds of the weight of 28 2-5 tons, of a value of $1,000,000,000, have been taken from the earth from the earliest time to the present day. These figures, however, only concern the stones before cutting, which reduce their weight by half, but multiplies their value by five.

A Timid Nature.

It must be a timid nature that would refrain from every good time for fear of consequences.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nurnberg Birthplace of Thimble.

As far as we can be certain of anything, the thimble is to be traced to the inventive and ingenious artisans of Nurnberg, who were the acknowledged manufacturers of it in the fourteenth century. It was not, however, until 1534, that the thimblemakers became what is called a corporate body, although for a whole century previously the Nurnberg merchants had carried thimbles with them for sale on their yearly expeditions to the great fairs of Leipzig, Hamburg and Lubeck.

Husband Alleges Deception.

A California man testifies in the divorce suit that when he was courting his wife she always met him at the front door with a kitchen apron on, leading him to believe she was domestic in her taste, and after he married he learned to his dismay that she had never even learned how to boil an egg, and that she gave him the alternative of boarding or clearing out.—Houston Post.

Passed Away.

Notice in a country store—"We regret to inform our honored customers that our good and generous friend, Mr. Credit, expired today. He was a noble soul, always willing and helpful, but has been failing for some time. May he rest in peace. Pay cash."—Boston Transcript.

Clocks That Speak.

Clocks without hands or faces are now common in Switzerland. The time-piece stands in the hall, and, when a button is pressed, by means of phonographic arrangements it calls out "Half-past five" or "Five minutes to nine," as the case may be.

Losses by Poisonous Weeds.
The loss of cattle and sheep due to poisonous weeds is very great. On the United States national forest ranges alone the loss in 1916 amounted to 6,648 cattle and 16,273 sheep, besides a number of horses, goats and other animals.

"A woman marries a man who got up and gave her his seat in a street car." Then the only way for a man to escape is to poke his nose into his newspaper when he hears the rustle of a skirt near his car seat.

Another Feminine Industry.
"Girls wanted for men's neckwear," reads the advertisement of a department store. But we imagine that a man would be uncomfortable wearing a girl around his neck.—New Orleans States.

Avoid Unprofitable Moods.
Angry moods and "grouches" and their twin sisters, "grudges," serve absolutely no purpose. If some one hurts or wounds us generously forget it. Time heals the deepest cuts and makes us braver and wiser for the experience. Let us love life and its worthwhile things and avoid all unprofitable moods. Otherwise happiness will never come our way, and if we search for it, it will flee from us like a phantom, for after all it is the state of our mind.

New York's Systematic Growth.
A remarkable forecast of population of New York is brought to light in copies of the Scientific American for September 8, 1860. A statistician for the manual of the common council shows the population of the city to increase until 1905 would have made the population of New York 5,257,493, a figure almost in accord with the census of that time.

Get Your Webbed Feet.
A Maine inventor's mechanical substitutes for web feet are bags to be attached to a swimmer's legs, opening with the kick and folding with the return.

EXCUSES

OUR hired man had a number of distinctive characteristics: he was a real beau when he was dressed up, he had read more sensational stories than any other ten people I had ever met, he retailed enough baseless gossip to have entitled him to honorary membership in a women's duplicate whist club, and he had a faculty for offering excuses and alibis, in case he was detected in error or neglect, that was little short of genius.

If the bars were down and the cattle got into the corn, if he left the mules untied and they ran away and smashed things, if he forgot to water the garden, in the well-known words of Mr. Post, there was a reason. In fact, there were a dozen, if need be, all good and sufficient and no duplicates in the lot. This peculiar talent of his for explanation, however, father thought would be of more value in the diplomatic service than on the farm, so he let him go.

The person with an excuse usually feels himself safely armed against any contingency. If he should reach the railroad station late, but with a badly-working alarm clock to lay the blame on, he would feel injured if the train was not held for him.

"I meant to get there," Rudolph said to me, confidentially. "I sat up late, somebody had stolen my alarm clock, but I asked the maid to wake me, and then she forgot it."

His excuse was a good one, he thought, and should have saved him from any unpleasant consequences, but the fact remained that he didn't keep his appointment; it was his last chance—he lost the sale.

Men want efficiency in those with whom they do business, not the ability to explain why one has been inefficient. Nobody cares for excuses excepting that they show a desire on the part of a derelict to be polite. What is needed is to have things right the first time they are done, to have people on time, to have work accomplished within the limits set, and to be sure the message is carried to Garcia. We judge men by what they accomplish, rather than by the skill they display in explaining why they have failed.

"I tried to do the work," the employee said who was asking credit for something he had attempted, but in which he had failed. But that is not the way business is done in this world.

DIFFERENCES ADJUSTED

Manufacture of Auto License Tags to Be Resumed at Pen.

Columbus, Oct. 3.—Differences over the type of paint to be used in the manufacture of the 1925 automobile license number plates at the Ohio penitentiary apparently have been adjusted, as a result of a conference among Governor Donahey, Secretary of State Brown, Automobile Registrar Wilson and Purchasing Agent Brennan. Donahey ordered that making of plates proceed with the type of paint contracted for by Brennan after tests made had demonstrated, according to officials, that it would prove satisfactory. The new plates, in black and cream colors, will go on sale in December.

Balloon Race Finish.

Washington C. H., O., Oct. 3.—The Ohio regional balloon race was won by the "Detroit," by flying 305 miles in 13 hours before landing safely at Appomattox, Va. The "Washington C. H." was second. She landed safely at Summer Hill, Cambria county, Pa. She remained in the air 13 hours and 48 minutes for a new endurance record. The "Goodyear" was third, landed near Parkersburg, W. Va. Officials say the 305 miles made by the "Detroit" is a new long distance record for balloons with 35,000 cubic feet capacity. The former mark was 280 miles, officials said.

Referendum on Gas Rate.

Columbus, Oct. 3.—City Clerk Turner notified members of the committee seeking a referendum on council's 40-cent gas rate ordinance that they have filed sufficient valid names with their petitions to demand the referendum. As a result council, at a special meeting Friday night, must decide whether to repeal the 40-cent measure and pass a new gas ordinance or to stand pat on the ordinance as it stands. If the latter course is adopted, as is expected, council must submit the ordinance to a vote at the November election.

Sentences Suspended.

Akron, O., Oct. 3.—Charles L. Winters, salesman, and C. E. Watts of Cleveland, formerly in the real estate business here, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge E. E. When they reached home and explained to his mother why they were late Herbert promptly added: "Yes, and if there hadn't been two of us men along we might not be here yet."

LANDS BIG ONE

FROM DEER CREEK.

While Harry Howard, Dr. Linton, Henry Tyler, Bob and Bill Tyler were fishing at the B. & O. bridge over Deer creek at Mt. Sterling Wednesday, October 1, the former hooked a river cat weighing 23½ pounds, 3 feet 4½ inches in length. The immense fellow was deposited in a large tub on the pavement in front of the Blacker store on South Main street, where it has been receiving the admiring attention of all London sportsmen. The crowd caught in all nine cats, ranging in weight from 1½ to 23½ pounds.
